Invitation from NDLR 2022 Meeting Co-Chairs

The Scientific and Organising Committees would like to invite you to be a part of the New Directions in Leukaemia Research (NDLR) Meeting 2022 to be held in Brisbane, Queensland, Australia from Monday 7 March to Wednesday 9 March 2022.

The goal of the NDLR Meeting is to bring together scientists and clinicians to discuss emerging paradigms and breakthroughs at the forefront of blood cancer research and treatment, from the molecular basis of leukaemia, myelodysplasia, myelofibrosis, lymphoma and multiple myeloma to new therapies and actionable biomarkers emerging in the clinic.

As one of the premier international leukaemia meetings, NDLR 2022 will again bring together early career investigators, senior scientists and clinicians. Attendees will hear of recent findings in basic and translational research through interaction with local and international experts and forging new collaborations. The meeting will facilitate the planning of new clinical trial objectives and educate the next generation of physician scientists in Australia.

Leukaemia research has undergone an unprecedented revolution in recent years and this is beginning to deliver a real and significant impact in the clinic. The biennial NDLR Meeting offers a unique opportunity for scientists and clinicians to keep pace with such a rapidly evolving field and therefore offers sponsoring organisations unrivalled exposure and recognition.

This Meeting also provides the opportunity for the industry to interact with experts in the field of leukaemia research and clinical haematology (haematologists/oncologists).

We look forward to having you participate as a sponsor or exhibitor at NDLR 2022.

Professor Deborah White and Associate Professor Daniel Thomas
